

The Geometry of Persian garden:
 Persian gardens were either built on a plain land or on a steep land where it was easier to make the garden more beautiful with waterfalls and more trees. In Persian garden great attention was paid to geometrical shape and among them Square which better shows the relation between different elements of garden has a special importance. Another important principle about Persian garden is the main view existing as a long drawn rectangle in front of the pavilion.

Sardar (the entrance building)

Sardar (the entrance building)

four alternatives of pavilion exposure inside the garden

The Mahan Prince Garden, Kerman

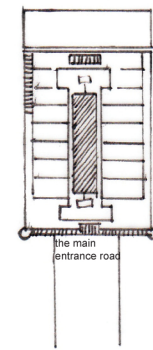

The main garden of Dolat-Abad, Yazd

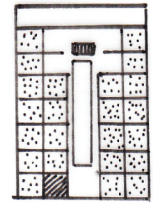

Geographic features of Persian gardens:

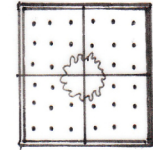

1. low slope and flat gardens
2. hill garden
3. water garden
4. house garden
5. riverside garden

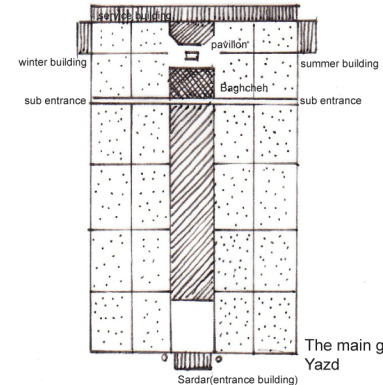

the main entrance road

one of the squares

The Mahan Prince Garden, Kerman

The main garden of Dolat-Abad, Yazd

Sardar (entrance building)