

Garden: because of the tall walls from each side the garden is usually very deep and in hot days of summer it will full of shadow. During night when the weather is cold the cool air that is heavier than the warm air would stay at the bottom of the garden and during daytime the garden would be the coolest part of the house and the difference between the temperature of outside and inside the garden is tremendous.

