

THE PIER

Lightweight structures as new beach access spaces

A light wooden walkway, mounted dry and therefore easily removable, furnishing function of an outdoor space of small dimensions and in close contact with water. This "floating" pier, (thanks to some hidden devices, has been thought to be welcoming and empathetic, to give citizens a place with a more domestic dimension where they can feel comfortable, relaxed. The seats overlooking the sea at the end of the walkway, hollowed out in the walkway, have the dimensions that a comfortable armchair could have and create a little contemplative space.
